FROM THE DESK OF THE CMD

Dear Friends,

I hope you are all doing well. As we connect through this edition of Vijay Path, the first quarter of the financial year is already behind us. Just as the weather is transitioning from the peak of summer towards the monsoon, our business has also shown seasonal trends. At V-Trans, April was a relatively slow start, being the first month of the financial year, but momentum improved in May and June. In fact, June performed better than expected, and I hope this momentum continues.

Over the past few years, we have crossed several milestones and established strong benchmarks across technology, processes, operations, and other areas. Our regular CFMs have added great value to decision-making and strategy; many issues and hurdles are discussed and resolved in these meetings. However, excellence is a continuous journey, and there will always be opportunities to improve. We are seeing gradual improvement in our bottom line, but we have not yet reached the desired levels. Given the backlog of opportunities and the goals we have set, the gap remains significant and calls for even greater focus and execution. Our senior leadership team is committed to ensuring that the hard work and initiatives across the organization translate into tangible results.

Our V-Xpress team continues to perform well. However, certain operational challenges have caused a slight stagnation in the previously aggressive growth trajectory over the last couple of months. I am confident that, with the team's commitment and collective efforts, we will overcome this phase soon. V-Logis, on the other hand, continues to grow steadily and is making encouraging progress.

The global geopolitical environment and ongoing conflicts have pushed fuel prices up and increased uncertainty across supply chains. This affects not only the direct and indirect costs of logistics but also contributes to inflation across the economy. I hope there won't be further price hikes.

We live in a VUCA world where frequent crises beyond our control have become common. Such circumstances remind us that resilience and agility are among the greatest strengths of any organization. They compel logistics companies to continuously enhance operational efficiency, optimize costs, and leverage technology. The ability to adapt quickly to changing conditions will remain a key differentiator in today's dynamic business environment.

It is with sadness that I share the demise of Mrs. Zaverben, wife of one of our uncles and one of the founders of V-Trans, our Jagshi Kaka. We pray to the Lord to grant her a place at His lotus feet.

In June, we celebrated International Yoga Day, which reminded us of the importance of physical and mental well-being. As a regular practitioner, I have experienced the benefits firsthand and encourage each of you to dedicate a few minutes every day to yoga and meditation, even beginning with simple pranayama. I firmly believe that good health is one of a leader's greatest strengths; a healthy mind resides in a healthy body.

As we move into the next quarter, let us carry forward the same discipline, optimism, and commitment to excellence to achieve our shared goals.

Wishing you and your families good health, happiness, and continued success.

Warm regards,
Mahendra Shah

MOTIVATIONAL STORY

WHEN CONSISTENCY MEETS OPPORTUNITY

The 2026 FIFA World Cup was a historic moment for Cape Verde. Making their first-ever appearance on football's biggest stage, they faced Spain, one of the tournament favorites. Most people expected a one-sided contest.

Few noticed Cape Verde's 40-year-old goalkeeper, Vozinha.

He wasn't a global superstar. He hadn't spent his career playing for the world's biggest clubs. Instead, he spent years doing something far less glamorous: consistently working on his skills, improving his game, and staying ready for an opportunity that might never come.

When that opportunity arrived, he was prepared.

Against Spain, Vozinha delivered the performance of his life. As Spain launched attack after attack, he stood firm, making seven crucial saves and denying some of the world's best players. His heroics helped Cape Verde secure a historic 0-0 draw and earned him the Player of the Match award.

To many, it looked like a breakthrough moment.

In reality, it was the result of years of preparation.

The world saw 90 minutes of brilliance. What it didn't see were the thousands of hours of training, discipline, sacrifice, and perseverance that made that performance possible.

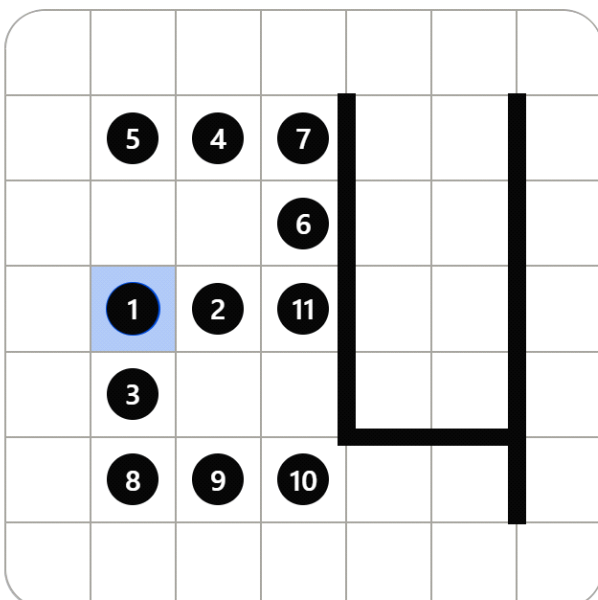

Vozinha's story is a reminder that success rarely happens overnight. Opportunities may appear suddenly, but they are seized by those who have spent years preparing for them.

At an age when many athletes are nearing retirement, Vozinha proved that consistency, commitment, and continuous improvement can still create extraordinary moments.

Moral of the Story: Keep working on your skills, even when nobody is watching. One day, opportunity will knock, and when it does, your preparation will determine whether you answer the door.
